About Mrs. Bailey:

I love being with people. Being of service to others gives my life purpose and meaning.

Travel is necessary for my happiness and when I am not traveling, I am planning my next trip. I am curious about how people live, the languages they speak, and their history.

I adore music, dance, photography, art, words, reading, being creative and trying different things.

Teaching allows me to combine most of my interests, which is one of the reasons why I love to teach.

Relevant Experience:

I have been teaching Spanish at Homestead since 1999. It has been my pleasure to lead student groups to Spain, Chicago, and Ecuador.

In 2003, I received my first Lilly Grant and backpacked the Camino de Santiago across Northern Spain.

In 2017, I received my second Lilly Grant and spent most of the summer in Spain with my son.

My project allowed me to reconnect with Spanish family and live as a local in Barcelona

Why do I teach?

One of the most satisfying things for me is that moment when we get to the end of class and someone says, “That was fun!” or “That wasn’t as hard as I thought it was going to be,” or my ultimate favorite, “Now, I get it!”. It is a joy to spend my days with students by helping them to improve their language skills and grow as students and young people. I enjoy introducing them to different cultures and new ideas, and I love being a part of their lives and getting to watch them grow.
